get to know WHO WE ARE.

Dlano Kwakho Projects is a private limited company registered as a section 14 under the auspices of the South African Companies Act with a pool of highly skilled experienced multi-skilled, professionals who provide support services around all aspects of rural and urban community development.

Dlano Kwakho, a zulu name directly meaning “eat what's yours” is a family business name that has been passed over two generations.

our SERVICES

This pool of consultants has extensive experience in:

- community development facilitation,
- community based natural resource management,
- capacity building at the community and local government levels,
- managing infrastructure delivery projects,
- livelihoods strategy facilitation governance and leadership training,
- youth skills development, mentoring and support.

OUR Journey

DK's goal is to facilitate all aspects of development including planning, implementation management and programme design. Operating from Gauteng, DK projects renders services to a diverse range of clients ranging from village based community development organisations, NGO's business groups, local Municipalities, provincial and national government and state agencies.

DK projects has expertise in facilitation of development actions including implementation management of participatory socio-economic development initiatives. This includes governance and institutional development provision, technical skills training and contracts management. DK Projects applies and promotes participatory approaches to its development praxis with a focus on building social capital resulting in empowered communities towards emancipation. Key to this orientation, we focus on the asset based development approach by building on and enhancing the clients inherit strengths through application based and capacity development.

DK projects seeks opportunities for partnerships in sealing up good practice and sustainable development to the benefit of all the provinces inhabitants. One of the fundamental elements of DK projects' mandate is to identify and taste promising development practices that can be scaled up for efficient and effective service delivery.

Small Medium Micro Enterprise Development

As an organization we continue to provide invaluable mentoring and enterprise development assistance to the emerging small businesses (SMMEs) through strong links with protected areas, different government and private companies.

Currently, the organization working in collaboration with an NGO is wrapping a 2 year Jobs Fund funded project. The project aims at:

- Empowering SMMEs and
- Establishing business linkages to support community initiatives adjacent to Kruger National Park to improve their livelihoods.

Theatre “Voice of the Voiceless” in creating Awareness

- 2002 – World Summit on sustainable Development, Johannesburg, South Africa
- 2003 – IUCN World Parks Congress, Durban South Africa
- 2004 – IUCN World Conservation Congress, Bangkok, Thailand
- 2009 – UNFCCC COP15, Copenhagen, Denmark
- 2013 – UNFCCC COP17, Durban South Africa.
- 2015 – World Forestry Congress,
Durban South Africa

In Addition to its core business of institutional development and governance in Community Based Natural Resource Management (CBNRM) - DK Projects, specializes in using theatre to raise awareness amongst rural communities about sustainable use and management of biodiversity, the legal framework surrounding land and resource tenure, access and benefit sharing, and more recently, the impacts of climate change on rural livelihoods, and the necessity for adaptation to such impacts.

Through partnerships with different organisations locally and internationally, DK Projects, in 1997 began using theatre to raise awareness of the conflicts between Protected Areas and adjoining communities, and to promote dialogue and understanding. This method has proved highly effective, by giving a voice to communities and enabling them to communicate their perspectives to park managers. Since then DK Projects has run capacity development programs using theatre across the continent and have been invited to national and international events to us this tool of communication to further elaborate the importance of conserving and sustainable use. These are some of the notable events that DK Projects has been invited to perform:

DK PROJECT PARTICIPATION

Our Partnership

Between the years 2010 and 2013 DK Projects working with Resource Africa spearheaded the Department of Environmental Affairs' People and Parks Programme, in which the programme helped local communities to come together to protect their land, water, animals, plants, so that they can use these resources in a sustainable way to improve their lives and the lives of their children and grandchildren. Most importantly, it provided an approach towards enabling communities to participate in the management of resources in collaboration with other integral stakeholders.

DK Projects has also established relationship with Southern African Wildlife College (SAWC) in lecturing on Community Based Natural Resource Management (CBNRM) at the institute and different communities across the SADC region.
